"It is a pleasure to address prospective teachers. You, with the men and women of your profession who are in teaching service, are the bulwark of our democracy. In war or peace, your loyalties to your country and to your Alma Mater will be your inspiration and your guide. May I wish you the great joy which comes from having found your place and having done your part."

Our Adviser...

Lawrence H. Conrad

His warm understanding of human frailties and deep respect for humanity's intrinsic greatness are the qualities that explain the close association many of us have had with Mr. Conrad. Those of us who did not come to know him well will remember, nevertheless, the mellowed, satiric humor and ever-mobile features of "Uncle Dudley" and will recall them frequently in years to come.

We, the Class of 1945, would like to express to Mr. Conrad a small part of the gratitude we feel for his invaluable aid and guidance during these years of our stay at MSTC. They have been richer for having known him.

Junior Class

It was this junior class that had the honor of presenting the last formal dance for the duration of the war, way back when they were freshmen. Quite appropriately, the theme assumed the shape of a military ball and was one of the first formals open to the entire student body.

It was also the first class to grow in a cumulative fashion; the first group made their appearance in January of 1942, the second in May and the final, but largest, group in September. Despite the building-up process, the group managed to keep itself united and has become well-known through its whole-hearted contributions to war-time campus activities.

The junior class, whom the seniors leave behind to be the leaders of 1945-46, will be able to experience more fully the recapturing of the old spirit of MSTC in pre-war days. We know the juniors will make the most of it!

These Sophs have really been a major force in getting back the old zest and fresh vitality that MSTC's college life has needed. Their motto might very well have been—"we can do it if we really want to"—and they certainly have helped.

Though formals are out "for the duration," the Sophs proved that an informal dance or party can be just as much fun! They have been the main support of social affairs sponsored by other groups as well as their own. No need to worry about leaving MSTC to the charge of these future upperclassmen. They can do it.

This fall saw the largest group of freshmen to enter MSTC since the onset of the war—211 new faces from every county in the state except Cape May County. This number included several ex-servicemen taking refresher courses under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

Although campus life has gone through a complete metamorphosis, hazing week was still kept as an integral part of our tradition. Milk-maids' costumes and scrub-pails were the vogue this year in real farmer-farmerette style. Squaws and braves finally smoked the peace pipe at the Soph-Frosh Peace Dance which ended all hostilities (?).

This is an energetic, spirited class—their enthusiasm was first revealed by the large turnouts to club meetings and social affairs. Their “new blood” was just what was needed to be injected into school spirit.

May we venture a prediction—that this class of 1948 will see, before its graduation, the “good old days” back again at MSTC.

Russ and Chapin Halls are the two beautiful Spanish mission style dormitories on campus. Girls usually enter Russ in their freshman year, stay there for two years and then transfer to Chapin Hall for the last two years at MSTC. Both dorms have inviting living rooms which echo the traditional interdorm formals and senior balls of yesterday and resound with the parties and informal dances of a war-time social program. Each dorm elects its own officers to preside over the monthly meetings at which time all suggestions of the students are given consideration. Russ Hall with its central dining room is the scene of the memorable Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners when the holiday atmosphere is captured by the soft glow of candles.

lovely dinner gowns, and, for Christmas, the traditional caroling.

Many lasting friendships fostered in the dorm linger on throughout the years to come. The girls will always remember cramming for tests together, talking the hours away, attending the parties given for any and every occasion. When the seniors are preparing to bid goodbye to their Alma Mater, a banquet is given in their honor. Full of memories and fond thoughts of MSTC the girls gather around to sing some of the old favorite college songs. The linking of hands and swaying back and forth to the cherished strains of the "Alma Mater" symbolize the spirit of MSTC.

ALMA MATER

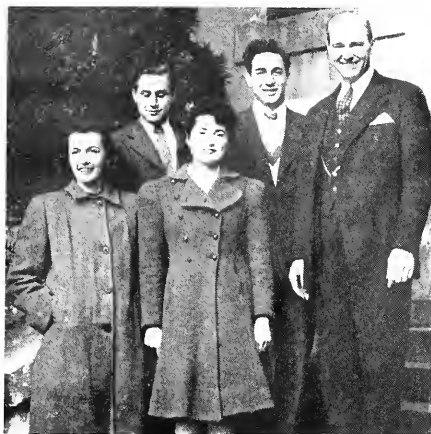

Beneath the Jersey skies of blue
In Montclair's mountain town
Thy hands our college, tried and true,
Are growing in renown.
We love thy campus, love thy halls,
And often here we raise
With loyal hearts
Long songs of praise.

Chorus:

Ah hail, ah hail Montclair!
To thee our voices raise.
Alma Mater, dear Montclair,
Our undying hymn of praise.
We love thy colors, dear Montclair,
The scarlet and the white,
May they forever help us dare
To choose and do the right.
And though in after years our fate
May lead us far apart,
Nor time no space may separate
The ties that bind the heart.

The Student Government Association, which represents the entire student body, is the head of the large family of campus organizations, functioning on the principle of government for, of, and by the students. The Board of Trustees, the administrative group of the SGA, charters clubs, supervises campus activities, appropriates funds among the college organizations, assists in holding elections and planning assembly programs, and sponsors social events. At its bi-monthly meeting the Board considers problems concerning campus activities and the welfare of the student body.

By unifying the diverse campus activities and by carrying out the will of the students, the SGA furthers school spirit and strengthens "the ties that bind the heart."

Kappa Delta Pi

The ambition of every student is to become a member of Gamma Epsilon, a chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, the national educational honor society. Members are selected from the junior and senior classes on the basis of high scholarship and personality. With "knowledge, duty and power" as a motto, the chief aim of this honorary group is to foster the professional attitude among students and inspire its members to become leaders in the field of education. Discussing educational problems, holding the annual coffee house meeting and the impressive candlelight initiation ceremony, and directing a war information center constitute its chief activities.

Aldornia

Membership in Aldornia is a highly-prized distinction. From the junior and senior classes, a limited number of outstanding students of English are selected each year to become members of this honorary society.

Varied and interesting monthly meetings are held at Russ Hall. The students enthusiastically plan the programs which usually center around phases of literature not found in the curriculum. Art and music, as related to literature, are some of the topics of discussion at these gatherings.

This year a special program was planned to commemorate the 88th birthday of George Bernard Shaw.

Aphesteon

High scholarship is the requirement for membership in Aphesteon, the honorary mathematics society for juniors and seniors. The organization has as its goal to stimulate interest in advanced math, and encourages individual research in specialized branches. Various aspects of mathematical theory are the topics of discussion at the monthly meetings, to which guest speakers and alumni are invited. At the end of the year awards are presented to students with the highest scholastic records in their major. The social side of Aphesteon is represented by its annual open house and traditional party for departing seniors.

Rohwec

The coveted goal of all social studies majors is membership in Rohwec, the honorary society in this field. Providing an opportunity for informal social gatherings and enriching the members' knowledge in their major field, Rohwec is outstanding as an active organization on campus.

The annual banquet, at which this society inducts new members and entertains the social studies faculty, is a highlight of the season. The presentation of an award by this society each year to the Montclair graduate who has achieved the greatest success in the teaching of social studies over a period of five years is indeed an incentive to majors in the field.

Women's Sports

The Women's Athletic Association commands attention as one of the largest and most active groups at Montclair. The sports sponsored by the WAA are many and varied offering valuable exercise combined with real fun.

In the fall, the season is ushered in with hockey or soccer. Those who participate in either sport find the inevitable bangs and bruises compensated for by the sheer love of a good game in the wide-open spaces.

Volleyball holds the spotlight as the most popular fall sport. Interclass competition is aroused by the climatic interclass games in which fight and fun combine to produce the true sportsmanship of the girl athletes at MSTC.

Basketball is the only winter sport on campus. Enthusiasm for this popular sport is evidenced by a long list of applicants throughout the season who wish to become members of the intramural team. The selection of candidates for the Red and White team serve as an incentive to the enthusiasts.

Spring brings forth bat-and-ball and bow-and-arrow. The girls have a playday during this season with other colleges in which the MSTC girls put on their best performance.

WAA has indeed proven its worth in the skillful and effective coordination of all college sports activities.

Athletics

The men at MSTC have been forced to curtail most of their pre-war athletic program because of the call to service; however, they have done their best to provide as worthwhile a schedule as possible during the present emergency.

Basketball holds the spotlight in intercollegiate sports. In spite of the general "manpower shortage," the team planned a heavy schedule and encountered stiff opposition against such teams as City College of New York, Newark College of Engineering, St. John's, St. Joseph's, Drew, Panzer, and St. Francis. The squad is a hard-hitting, hard-fighting, enthusiastic group who have proven they can hold their own.

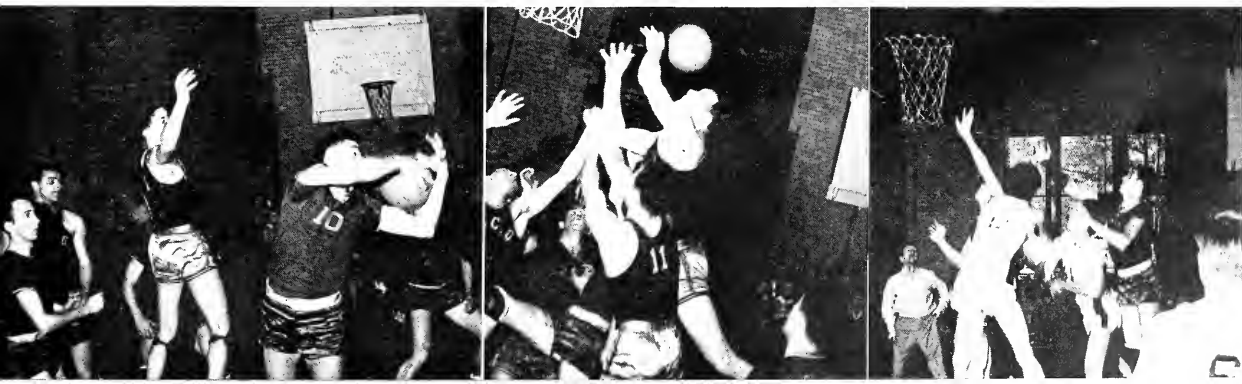

In the interim between seasonal sports, the athletic program is devoted to track, commando-tactics, baseball, and indoor gymnastics.

Previously the intercollegiate baseball and track teams were as much a part of college sports as is basketball. For the present, however, sports have been confined to the campus with the emphasis on team and class activities.

Up hill, down hill, and through the valley typify commando-tactics. The white-uniformed athletes can regularly be seen trodding the beaten paths on campus.

Bars, rings, mats, and balls are the basic equipment which the wrestling room provides for this indoor activity. The men often avail themselves of the wrestling-room when they are on the lookout for some well-spent diversion.

Senior Day

When we were Freshmen . . .

This senior diary is an attempt to record through candid shots the events from 1942 to 1945 which represent the activities of the graduating class. It will be evident in these photos that social activities were curtailed greatly because of war. These pictures, however, we believe emphasize the outstanding and memorable experiences of the seniors.

The distinguishing feature of the freshman year was the Initiation. Freshman Week will always persist as a humiliating experience (which most of us needed!). The unlimited equipment we were required by the "supreme sophs" to have at hand (life-savers, sand to extinguish "incendiary bombs," matches, pail, and the flattering garb of red hats, identification signs, and drab complexions), and the constant hazing by the "sophs" rounded out an unforgettable experience.

As freshmen we witnessed the last formal for the duration. During this year, too, the last season of the gridiron sport was enjoyed.

With the advent of spring we succeeded in dispelling the inferiority complexes built up during the year and looked ahead eagerly to the delightful revenge we would achieve the coming September on the new "frosh."

Not even in classes were we able to forget . . .

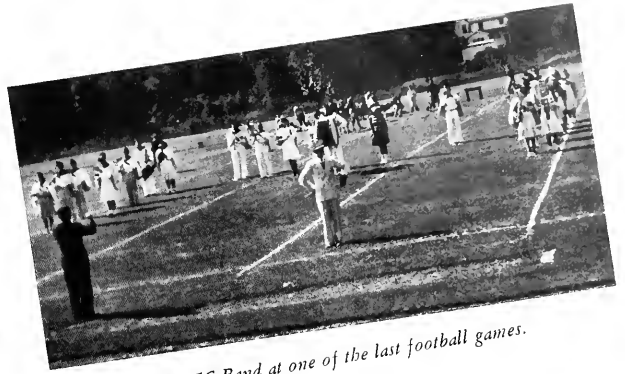

With so few "braves" available, even the "squaws" lost no time . . .

"Squaw-Brave Day" produced this.

As Sophomores . . .

The Fall of 1943 ushered in a large group of green freshmen—likely bait. We "sophs" were out for revenge as the present "sophs," who were then "frosh," will admit. We retaliated upon them for every "injustice" we suffered the preceding year.

With the war proceeding at a low ebb and with the outlook not too rosy, this sophomore-junior year was our darkest. Only occasional social events kept things going. Thus, our interests turned to aiding the war effort. Many students at MSTC began working on a part-time schedule to help speed victory. During the summer months, the farmers in the surrounding district enthusiastically received the aid of our students who were willing to sacrifice time and effort to harvest the food crop.

during the summer term*

The Faculty did their share, too.

Our Junior Year . . .

In the summer of our junior year two main events are recorded: The Faculty-Student baseball game and the SGA swimming party.

The occasion of the baseball encounter began on a hot, sunny afternoon with a substantial crowd of spectators gathered at Upper Field to witness the contest. Before very long dark clouds appeared in the sky overhead and then came the deluge. Very few present had learned to appreciate the nearby shelter of trees before this time. When the sun reappeared a few minutes later, water-soaked participants and spectators resumed the game. (Incidental detail: the Faculty lost!)

The SGA swimming party at the Montclair Pool was one of the initial attempts to revive dwindling spirit. Its success paved the way for the coming events which contributed so much to the returning spirit of MSTC.

The Faculty team—they tried hard . . .

. . . But the odds were too great.

Dr. Fulcomer waits to see where the ball will land.

What was the joke?

Classes can be enjoyable.

And now we are Seniors . . .

Did we ever look like that?

Those who were honored by "Who's Who" for 1945.

Mr. Nickerson did the honors as Santa Claus.

Just think—THREE men in one picture.

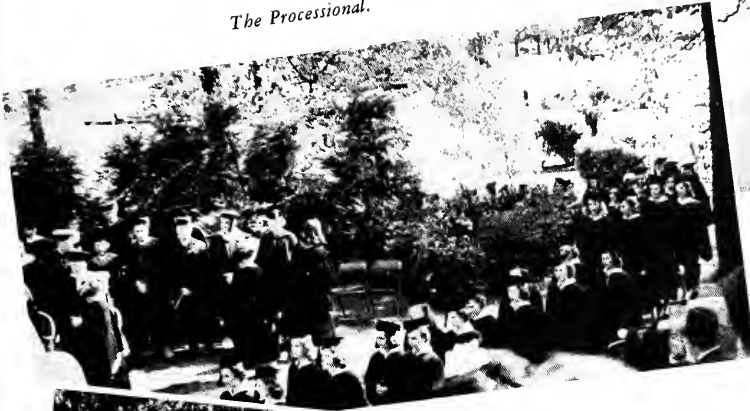

Our last year at MSTC seemed to have crept up on us so stealthily that it was difficult to realize we had arrived.

Early in the term a group of seniors, whose pictures appear below, were selected by "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" as outstanding collegiates from MSTC.

We are grateful that our senior year has been a "renaissance" of school activities. The events pictured below represent to some degree the major experiences of this our last year at Montclair.

With fond recollections of many worthwhile hours spent here, we leave our beloved Alma Mater knowing "nor time nor space may separate the ties that bind our hearts."
